

IMPROVED BOND PAD

Abstract

A bond pad upon which a wirebond interconnection is formed, consisting of a first bond pad layer formed on a chip, and a second bond pad layer formed on the first bond pad layer, wherein the first bond pad layer is more resistant to removal than the second bond pad layer during probe testing, and the first bond pad layer increases resistance to interconnection failure during mechanical testing.